

Raksha Rao

Current UNSW College Student

Raksha is a current UNSW College student. Raksha has leadership experience in representing students as well as being an orientation group leader.

She has special interest in debate and drama classes. Raksha has participated in numerous science research project competitions. This included Youth Flying Machine Competition, where research was conducted on how to build modular streamline bodied planes with maximum power and flight while facing minimum resistance. The different prototypes were tested using automated testing software.